5. Answering Paragraph 5 of the Complaint, Eibeler admits that he was a director of Dwango for certain periods, that he attended certain Board Meetings, that he received some non-public information from Dwango, and that had some communications with management, but because of the vagueness of the remainder of the allegations, Eibeler does not have sufficient knowledge or information to form a belief as to the truth of those allegations, and on that basis denies them. The allegation that Eibeler was a control person is a conclusion of law to which Eibeler need not respond.
